Psalm 28:7 –The LORD is my strength and my shield; My heart trusts in Him, and I am helped; Therefore my heart exults, And with my song I shall thank Him.

Do you have a group of friends that you can pray with on a regular basis? Praying for people and for their joys and concerns can be one of the most tangible ways to see God working in the lives of people. Every Thursday I pray with residents of Hawaii Kai Retirement Community. There is no way to be subtle saying this, but this is a place where the topic of life and death are as common as talking about the weather. One day you dine with your neighbor, and the next day he or she is gone. It is not an easy existence, and every single day is a gift. When we pray, the seniors pray for good health, the homeless, the military and especially military families (they know what it feels like to be left alone). They pray for children who are suffering, people suffering from natural and human-made disasters all around the globe, their pastor and even their the harmony of their own community. Our seniors know the power of prayer because they have lived through so many joys and hardships, and they know a thing or two about tenacious living, and fragility of peace.

See you in church,

Pastor Jim
